--SEE OFFICE ACTION ON THE FOLLOWING PAGES--

Art Unit: 2838

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

2. The proposed drawing corrections filed on October 22, 2001 and May 29, 2003 have been approved. A proper drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The correction to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2-4, 7, 9-11, 14, 16-18, 21, 23-25, 28, 30-32, and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Walker et al (US 4,641,231).

Walker et al discloses a switching regulator comprising a main switch (G1), a synchronous switch (G2), and a simultaneous switch conduction detection circuit (30+ and 32+).

5. Claims 3, 4, 7, 9-11, 14, 16-18, 21, 24, 25, 28, 31, 32, and 35-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wilcox (US 5,408,150).

Wilcox discloses a switching regulator comprising a main switch (21), a synchronous switch (22), and a simultaneous switch conduction detection circuit (32).

6. Claim 3, 4, 6, 7, 9-11, 13, 14, 16-18, 20, 21, 24, 25, 27, 28, 31, 32, and 34-40 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Cheney (US 5,502,610).

Cheney discloses a switching regulator comprising a main switch (16H), a synchronous switch (16L), and a simultaneous switch conduction detection circuit (27H+ and 27L+).

7. Claims 2, 23, and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wilcox or Chaney in combination with Walker et al.

Wilcox and Chaney both teach a switching regulator as recited by claims 2, 3, 9, 10, 23, 24, 30, 31, and 38 except for utilizing a display unit. Walker et al teaches a switching regulator utilizing a display unit responsive to fault signals (52 and 56) as old and known in the art at the time of the invention (see line 64 of column 5 to line 7 of column 5). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified the switching regulator of Wilcox or Chaney by utilizing a display unit in order to alert the user of the switching regulator of a switching regulator fault as taught by Walker et al.

8. Claims 5, 12, 19, 26, and 33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chaney in combination with Suzuki et al (US 5,675,482).

Chaney teaches a switching regulator as recited by claims 5, 12, 19, 26, and 33 except for utilizing current direction detection. Suzuki et al teaches utilizing current direction detection (17 and 27) in power converters was an old and known expedient in the art at the time of the invention. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified current detectors of the switching regulator of Chaney by utilizing current direction detection as taught by Suzuki et al in order to determine whether the switch is sourcing or sinking current.
